At the meeting of the Dairymen's Association, at Utica, January 8, 1867, the unanimous expression of the factory men was that steam had a decided preference over anything else for cheese factories, that the raw arrangement from their rapid decay and large consumption of fuel, rendered unfit, and that no dairymen can afford to maintain the sheet metal and copper apparatus which have been present on the market with such a short service life.
